(?The White House is preparing for a rare announcement in which President Donald Trump will request a new justice for the Supreme Court, the New York Times reported Monday. The president is expected to announce his pick on Friday, the Times said, citing two people familiar with the decision. Trump is expected to make his decision after considering a short list of candidates that include two federal appellate court judges and Brett Kavanaugh, the high-ranking Trump attorney who was confirmed to the Supreme Court in 2018. “Every president is entitled to pick the justices he wants to serve on the Supreme Court,” White House spokesperson Kerri Kupec told the Times. If Trump picks Kavanaugh to be the new justice, he would become the president’s second pick for the Supreme Court, following Neil Gorsuch. While Kavanaugh and Gorsuch are considered more moderate conservatives, Trump sees them as too moderate for the conservative-leaning court. According to the Times, multiple conservative groups inside the White House are pressuring the president to pick Kavanaugh. Some conservative advocates are pushing for Trump to pick Kavanaugh and worry that a different pick would set a precedent that liberals could exploit in future court decisions, the Times reported.Q: How to get minimum value from vector element in R I have read an 0cc13bf012
