The aim of this systematic review is to determine the association between gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD) and Barrett's esophagus (BE), through a meta-analysis of existing studies. A systematic literature search was performed using PubMed and Cochrane databases up to April 2016. Studies that addressed the relationship between GERD and BE were included. The primary outcomes assessed were the association between the presence of GERD and BE. Additionally, the secondary outcomes assessed were the odds ratios (ORs) for Barrett's esophagus in patients with GERD and the association between the severity of GERD and BE. Fourteen studies were selected, which had a total of 11,355 patients. The meta-analysis was conducted using a random-effects model, and the pooled OR for the presence of BE was 8.8 (95% confidence interval [CI]: 5.1-15.6). When controlling for the variable of age, the pooled OR for the presence of BE was 6.0 (95% CI: 2.4-15.0), and for those aged
