Sammy Cat: The Aerodrome is a multiplayer simulator with sandbox building and roleplay elements. You will start with a small, basic hangar, but you will be able to add more buildings over time. You can also specialize in one of the three roles available: pilot, cabin crew, or mechanic. The first in a series of games focusing on Canadian airports, Sammy Cat Aerodrome: Sydney has all the standard SAM interface features, including custom configurability. Bases may be upgraded in various ways, such as purchasing real estate. Land is not required to build additional assets and can be hoarded to be sold to another player at a higher price. In addition, land buyers may pay each other interest to secure more high-quality land. You can establish your own bank account, be granted additional savings through the custom currency option, and declare bankruptcy if you are short of money. Hover over your hangar to access your inventory, or use the aviation selector on the main map to move to your aircraft. Select an airplane and hangar location, or summon your aircraft. You may also board or disembark the plane after it lands. Explore your surroundings using the map view. Zoom in on a map of the area to better locate your assets. You can see other player bases on the map by selecting a PBR character from your hangar. All other players can see your base and your aircraft, and you can see all of their aircraft on the map. Summon an aircraft using the aircraft selector. You may also call for your taxi and de-taxi services from this screen. You can also activate the park and runway selection feature for all nearby airports. Select an aircraft landing or take off service by going to the terminal. You can see the custom objects in your hangar by hovering your mouse over your aircraft. Airport helicopters are available in the Helicopter service, while other aircraft services will cost you an additional $1,200. Aircraft departures are no longer random, so you will know when your plane is leaving. You can view other players' aircraft on the map. Your aircraft inventory is shown on the right side of the SAM interface. You can use all the standard SAM devices: wind drops, runway light indicators, runway lights, taxi indicator, and taxi lights. You can also add three custom airports and runways. You can add a control tower, and control towers typically cost $25,000, but you can customize it by replacing

The J.A. Douglas McCurdy Sydney Airport (IATA: YQY, ICAO: CYQY) is a regional airport located in Nova Scotia, Canada. In addition to private jets, chartered flights, general aviation, and the local coast guard, the airport handles no scheduled flights. The airport is located on a peninsula just off the coast of Sydney, Nova Scotia, Canada and is the last public airport for travellers between Montreal, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, Canada. Designated as IATA code "YQY", the airport is administered by the Sydney Airport Authority, a public/private partnership between Nova Scotia (62%), Quebec (26%), and the federal government (12%) to improve the airport. The original intent of the airport was the development of low-cost carriers, but it soon became apparent that the airport had excellent characteristics for short-to-medium-haul flights and low-fare, no-frills services instead. The airport is served by Air Canada Express, WestJet Encore, and WestJet with routes to Halifax (CYHZ), Toronto (CYYZ), and Montreal (CYUL). Depending on the season, scheduled aircraft include the CRJ-900, Dash 8-100/300/400, Embraer 175, and 737-6/7/8/MAX. Other traffic includes general aviation, medical flights, coast guard flights, and charters.
